

A vibrant illustration of a spring landscape. In the foreground, a calm body of water reflects the surrounding greenery. The middle ground is filled with a dense forest of tall, slender evergreen trees in various shades of green. In the background, rolling green hills are visible under a sky with soft, pastel clouds in shades of blue, purple, and pink. The overall scene is peaceful and scenic.

Tanghin Voice :

SPRING 2025

Teacher advisor : G.H Randy

Bulletin team member : Cici Zhao (3E)

CONTENTS

ACTIVITIES

76 th Hong Kong Schools Speech Festival	2
THE Channel – ME Time	3
English Society – Chill Guy : The Ultimate Room Escape	4
Drama Appreciation – The Tempest by William Shakespeare	4
Sharing in the Morning Assembly
◀ Artificial Intelligence	5
◀ Martial Arts	6

STUDENTS' GOOD WORK

My Favourite Spots in Tang Hin	7
◀ A Hooper's Paradise ~ the Basketball Court
◀ The Canteen
A Creative Story	8
◀ My Trip to The Moon
A Travel Blog	9
◀ A Journey to Egypt
A Complaint Letter	10
◀ An Unpleasant Dining Experience
An Article	11-12
◀ Grab your precious opportunity in the Hong Kong Marathon

ENGLISH FUN

Riddles	13
Fun Facts & Shower Thoughts	14
Artwork by Cici Zhao	15

ACTIVITIES

76th Hong Kong Schools Speech Festival

The recent Speech Festival was a wonderful display of talent and hard work from our students. Sixty-eight students, including 27 seniors and 41 juniors, participated in this exciting event. We proudly announce that 26 students took home awards, showing their dedication and skill. Among the prize winners, 7 students achieved 1st place, 9 earned 2nd place, and 10 secured 3rd place. This achievement highlights the effort our students put into their preparation and showcases their ability to express themselves confidently. We appreciate the support from all of our teachers and we are proud of all our students who participated in this event. If you'd like to watch these impressive performances, scan the QR code to enjoy the videos of our talented prize winners! Don't miss it!

Scan here to watch :

ME Time, which stands for “Mr. and Miss English’s Time”, is a sharing programme developed by a newly formed student group called THE Channel, short for Tang Hin English Channel.

In the programme, S.3 students take the lead by writing speeches to engage all the students in everyday topics. There are also school events included. The scripts are then delivered by S.2 students to the school. The students get the chance to practise their speaking skills in a supportive environment. This student-led initiative encourages collaboration between S.2 and S.3 students, enhancing their learning experience.

The speeches usually last for 1 to 2 minutes and are presented on Tuesdays and Fridays during lunch. They are broadcast through the public address system, and the video recordings are later shown at the covered playground.

Overall, feedback from both students and teachers have been very positive, highlighting how this new attempt fosters an English-rich environment on campus. We invite you to enjoy the captivating ME Time videos.

Scan the QR code to watch!

English Society - Chill Guy : The Ultimate Room Escape

An epic afternoon of puzzles and laughter! Our brave participants united to help Chill Guy escape. The participants tackled everything from cryptic messages hidden in the classroom to mysterious puzzles. Teams raced against time, connecting clues while Chill Guy's hints kept everyone flabbergasted. The highlight was when a participant discovered the final key hidden inside a math equation among pieces of distracting paper! Although some teams got stumped by the brain twister, everyone had a blast. Congrats to our adventurers who freed Chill Guy in just 55 minutes! It was an unforgettable adventure indeed!

Drama Appreciation - THE TEMPEST by William Shakespeare

On March 14, 2025, all the Form 4 students had a chance to watch a professional performance of William Shakespeare's play The Tempest. The students were engaged in an interactive question-and-answer session with the cast which sparked a lot of interest. Some students even had the opportunity to perform on stage! Let's hear what one of the student performers has to say:

Being able to perform on stage was an exhilarating experience for me. I had a chance to perform with professional actors this time, which was both interesting and enjoyable. Through this wonderful experience, not only did I take pleasure from being involved, but I could also acquire different skills. For instance, although a script had been given in advance, there was still a part that was temporarily added during the show. Performing in front of others allowed me to adapt to a new situation and conquer stage fright. At the same time, the audience seemed happy with my acting. Overall, this experience was very meaningful because I could learn and improve different skills while enjoying a fascinating activity.

Kayden, Chan Yu (4A)

Sharing in the Morning Assembly - Artificial Intelligence

Candy Zhang (6A)

Good morning, everyone!

Today, let's talk about something super exciting happening all around us — artificial intelligence, or AI. You might have heard the term a lot, but how does it really affect us here in Hong Kong, especially in our everyday lives and school?

First off, let's think about our city. We all know how busy Hong Kong is, right? Well, AI is stepping in to help make things run a bit smoother. For example, have you noticed those traffic lights that seem to change just when you need them to? That's AI working behind the scenes, managing traffic to reduce jams and keeping our air cleaner. Pretty cool, huh?

And it's not just being used in traffic, AI is popping up in stores and restaurants too! Have you ever seen a robot serving food or taking orders? It's like something out of a Sci-Fi movie, isn't it? But, how do you feel about robots doing jobs that humans used to do? Does it sound exciting? Or does it make you worry about your future job opportunities? Think about it.

Now, let's talk about school. AI is making waves in education too. Imagine having a personal tutor that's available 24/7! Some schools are starting to use AI systems that can help you with your homework or give you practice quizzes based on what you struggle with. How awesome would it be to get instant feedback about your work?

But here's the thing, while AI can be super helpful, we also need to remember the importance of teachers. Our teachers bring passion and creativity to learning. Teachers also bring the human touch to the classroom that a machine will never be able to replicate. So, how do you think we can balance AI and the human touch in education?

And what about the ethical side of things? They say "with great power comes great responsibility", right? As we embrace AI, we need to think about how it's used. Who thinks we should have discussions in class about the ethics of AI? I see some of you nodding your heads. So, what questions do you have?

All in all, AI is changing our lives in Hong Kong. From how we navigate the city to how we learn in school. It's everywhere! It's an exciting time, and you all have a role to play in shaping this future. So, let's stay curious, ask questions, and be ready to embrace the opportunities ahead!

Sharing in the Morning Assembly - Martial Arts

Evan, Hui Ki Long (4A)

Good morning!

I am Evan Hui from Class 4A. Today, I would like to talk about the significance of arts, particularly in the context of Chinese culture. Before we start, let's first picture "art" in Chinese Culture. You may be thinking about calligraphy, sculptures or maybe even magnificent architectural projects like the Forbidden City in our country's capital city — Beijing. However, there is one form that holds a special place in my heart, Chinese martial arts.

As a child, I was captivated by the "Ip Man" movie franchise, largely thanks to my dad, who is a huge fan of it. The series resonated with me, not only for its cinematic success but also for its cultural significance, showcasing the beauty of our heritage.

Martial arts has a rich history, dating back to over 4,000 years, even before the Xia dynasty. Martial arts has evolved through various periods of Chinese history, passing down from generation to generation, and it continues to thrive today. While martial arts are visually striking, what truly propelled them into the global spotlight were the films that brought them to life. The first martial arts film, "The Burning of the Red Lotus Temple", was produced in China, marking the beginning of a genre that has flourished ever since.

Martial arts films continued to develop till the 1970s when the genre began to dominate Hong Kong action films. The rise of Bruce Lee, whose legendary film Enter the Dragon (1973), not only sparked global interest in martial arts but also challenged Asian stereotypes in the U.S. Lee was honoured as one of Time Magazine's 100 most important people of the 20th century, solidifying his status as a cultural icon.

After the death of Bruce Lee, the industry declined a little, till the revival in the 90s and 2000s. Jackie Chan was one of the prominent figures during this time. Jackie is a renowned actor and martial artist. Born on April 7, 1954, Chan began his martial arts training as a child and starred in numerous films like "Drunken Master" and "Rush Hour". He is known for doing his own stunts and incorporating humour into martial arts. He has significantly contributed to the global interest in Chinese martial arts and he is one of the most recognizable martial artists of his time.

Martial arts have played a crucial role in the rise of Chinese cinema in recent years, filling me with pride whenever I hear actors speaking Chinese or Cantonese on screen. In an era dominated by K-dramas and J-dramas, I believe martial arts films can stand the test of time as they celebrate our rich cultural heritage.

Thank you.

Scan here to watch:

STUDENTS' GOOD WORK

My Favourite Spots in Tang Hin :

A Hooper's Paradise ~ the Basketball Court

Cooper, Cheung Hei Chit (1C)

The basketball court in our school is A Hooper's Paradise. It is a haven for anyone who loves basketball.

With its classic green floor, two sturdy hoops, and an abundance of basketballs, the court is always ready for action. I always look forward to playing basketball with my friends because it brings so much unexpected joy.

When lunchtime comes, I rush to finish my meal because I'm eager to sprint to paradise. As I'm often the first to arrive, I usually find the court empty. I get warmed up by sinking a few buckets and then my teammates usually trickle in.

As soon as we have enough players, the game is on! Sometimes we play 3 on 3 or play 5 on 5 full court if we have enough people. The moment everyone is ready, the BATTLE begins. My teammates and I can usually read each other's minds, executing perfect teamwork by passing dimes. We often dominate the game. But sometimes, we get challenged by the older students and they really give us a good run.

I enjoy spending my lunchtime on the court and playing until the final bell rings. It's a thrilling and vibrant place. When I'm feeling stressed, it's the best place to unwind because I can enjoy shooting for the stars together with my friends.

The basketball court is the perfect spot for athletic students or anyone looking to stay active. We not only improve our skills and techniques in basketball but also forge lasting friendships.

The Canteen

Harvey, Niu Haoyu (1B)

The canteen is located on the ground floor opposite the grand staircase. Although it can be a bit crowded at times, it is well-liked and a place for all hungry Tanghinians.

Most students hang out in the canteen before the morning assembly. They usually have a snack or two since it's a great place to "chillax". The lively scene with hundreds of students chatting radiates a welcoming atmosphere, brightening spirits.

Cherry's Tuck Shop in the canteen offers different mouth-watering snacks such as fish balls, cookies, chocolate and even ice cream. The delicious food gives many hungry students a psychological boost, making them more energetic and enthusiastic. The tuck shop is barely visible during recess because it's completely covered by crowds of students queuing up. But it's still worth the wait!

Besides the popular tuck shop, the vending machine is another favourite spot for students. Standing right next to the tuck shop, it offers an array of beverages to students. Many students enjoy their favourite snacks bought at the tuck shop and beverages from the vending machine. They often run out of stock by the end of recess and lunch hours. This goes to show how popular the canteen area is.

Perhaps the most important thing about the canteen is not its delicious food nor its appealing drinks. It's the strong sense of belonging students feel in the canteen. It is a place for socializing, where students share their views and discuss everything freely while making friends.

A Creative Story : My Trip to the Moon

Ella, Su Xin Tong (3B)

I left home at seven this morning to get prepared for a trip I'd never thought I'd take. After I put on a space suit, I went on a rocket to the moon. I embarked on an extraordinary journey longing to discover the unknown. The little quiet companion of the earth looked mysterious and magnificent as I stared at it from my spaceship. However, my trip had many unexpected mixes of adventure and thrills, which opened up an experience beyond my imagination.

As I reached the moon, I walked on the silver dust-covered surface of it and I was surrounded by nothing but silence and the vast starry sky. Suddenly, a soft and strange light lit up not far away. I approached it cautiously, feeling both nervous and excited. As the distance shortened, the glow gradually took shape – it turned out to be a group of transparent-skinned, spindly aliens sitting around what appeared to be some contraption machine. They must have been conducting some kind of ritual or research.

The aliens showed great curiosity and kindness to me, an uninvited guest, by communicating with me in a kind of telepathic way. They told me that they came from a galaxy far away and were interested in Earth's culture. The moon was one of their bases for studying the mysteries of the universe. We shared stories about each other's planets. At that moment, a friendship that spanned the stars quietly blossomed on the moon.

The good times did not last long. Just as we were basking in the joy of communication, an ominous dark red plume of smoke suddenly rose above the lunar horizon, accompanied by a low roar, and the silence was shattered by a sudden volcanic eruption. It turned out that the moon wasn't completely dead. Geological activities still existed, but they were extremely rare. We were lucky to witness an eruption!

Faced with this sudden danger, our extraterrestrial friends quickly activated their emergency shelter device, a craft capable of transiting across the lunar surface in an instant. With their help, I quickly boarded the craft, and with a violent jolt, we soared away from the area that was about to be swallowed up by lava.

Escaping the eruption, I looked back through the porthole of the spacecraft and saw the moon's surface covered in billowing smoke and flowing lava. The peace and beauty of the moon seemed like a distant memory. The experience made me realize that whether it was the Earth or the Moon, or even the distant planets, the forces of nature could not be ignored.

Eventually, my extraterrestrial friends escorted me back home safely to the Earth and left. This trip to the Moon did not only grant me the opportunity to witness the existence of an alien civilization, but also helped me understand the fragility of life and the vastness of the universe. It would become the most unforgettable memory in my life and inspire me to continue to explore the unknown and cherish everything around us.

A Travel Blog : A Journey to Egypt

Dorothea, Jin Yifan (2C)

Guess where I am? In Egypt! This 5-day trip was incredibly fascinating. I can't wait to tell you guys what I've seen these days even though it is only the second day here.

On 15th August, my family and I took a flight from Hong Kong and landed in Cairo, the capital city of Egypt. The clothes local people wear here are really new to me. I have never seen anything like this before. After checking in the hotel, we took a short ride to the Pyramid of Giza, which enjoys a great reputation around the world. It consists of three pyramids: Khufu, Khafa, and Menkaura. The pyramids are really huge and marvellous. And I can't believe they were constructed 5,000 years ago! Almost every day, bright sunlight shines on the large boulders of the pyramids, making them sparkle sacredly like gold. The boulders are gigantic and as hot as a frying pan! Believe it or not, I climbed onto one of them with the help of my dad!

In the afternoon, we made a visit to the Grand Egyptian Museum, which is one of the greatest museums in the world. There are many Egyptian antiques and I found those statues quite creepy because their faces looked pale and had no emotions at all! However, I saw a delicate cup there that was very different from others. It was called the Wishing Cup and there is a story behind it. They say it would make someone's wish come true, yet the person who makes the wish would also become cursed. It looked like a lotus flower and had words in black written on it.

The next morning we took the local train to Alexandria, a coastal city famous for its seafood and trading. We strolled along the local streets, observing the captivating historical buildings. We shopped at the local market and bought souvenirs. I bought a water bottle that was shaped like a mummy. The shop owner was so easy-going and warm that she gave us a discount!

After that, we had lunch at a local restaurant. Egyptian cuisine was not really my type, but I still found some of the dishes delicious. The first one is Kafta Kebab.

It is a kind of sausage made from flame-grilled lamb meat and spiced minced meat, paired with simple chopped tomato and cucumber salad. The sausage has a special aroma and the salad was refreshing. I've tried Sayadiyah Fish, which is a special dish in Alexandria as well. It is fish cooked with yellow rice, onions, spices and tomato sauce. The taste was a bit strange but the spiciness and the sourness of the fish made the dish really stand out!

This journey has been an energizing one! And it has not come to an end yet. Tomorrow I'm going to visit the Alexandria Library, which is filled with the most precious, ancient books of Egypt. I will post another blog entry when I'm back in Hong Kong. Don't miss it!

A Complaint Letter : An Unpleasant Dining Experience

Nancy, Huang Sheung Yu (4B)

Dear Sir or Madam,

I am writing to complain about the unsatisfactory experience at The Sphinx and shed light on the substandard services. I was having my birthday dinner at your restaurant last Friday and was infuriated by the gruesome experience. I would like to give a brief account about my unpleasant dining experience below.

To commence with, the deepest dissatisfaction I have is the hygiene situation at the restaurant. Upon settling into the seat, cockroaches could be seen crawling over the floor, and the filthy carpets stank. The most unsettling fact is that the kitchen is in the vicinity of the toilets, and it takes only about six steps to walk between those two. The thought of faeces near the food just sent chills down my spine and nauseated me. What further struck me was the terribly belated delivery of food and the condescending attitude of the waiters. We had not received our pizzas and smoothies after an hour, while other tables already got all of their orders. When we asked the waiter about the food, his belittling-the-issue attitude was exasperating and he made us feel disrespected. It was downright ridiculous that I had to wait for more than an hour to have my birthday dinner.

In a nutshell, this experience was atrocious and disappointing. It ruined my birthday and I would never patronize at your restaurant again. The Sphinx definitely needs refining and a holistic upgrade. Not only the hygiene issues should be resolved, but overhauling the vocational training system is advisable. I hereby demand a sincere apology vis-à-vis this chaos and a refund of $1900.00. I also urge the management to review the quality of services provided and prompt rectifications should be implemented.

I look forward to your earliest response.

Yours faithfully,
Nancy Huang

An Article : Grab your precious opportunity in the Hong Kong Marathon

Minnie, Ng Chi To (5D)

Have you ever participated in a marathon? Is running on your bucket list? Joining a marathon is a meaningful experience that benefits both individuals and society as a whole. Encouraged by my friends, I recently completed my first Hong Kong Marathon. It was a wonderful experience! You may worry that you cannot complete the whole journey or you may be afraid of being injured. Give yourself a challenge! In this article, I will explore the benefits of joining the Hong Kong Marathon.

Promoting physical fitness and your overall health is the most significant advantage of taking part in a marathon. A marathon is a long journey that requires regular training. Through constant training and exercise, you can strengthen your heart, and maintain healthy blood pressure and cholesterol levels. It also improves your muscle strength and helps you become more powerful. What's more, as running a marathon burns calories gradually and helps shape your body, it is no doubt a perfect choice for young people to stay fit and slim. If you love running, you'll appreciate how it benefits your bones and joints, which are crucial for personal growth — especially during puberty.

Apart from that, your mental health can improve as well. Many people only consider the physical health benefits that a marathon brings, but often ignore that it contributes to your mental health in several ways. During training, you will have to stick to your training schedule, follow a healthy diet and strive for further improvement through continuous practice. It is a way to cure your addiction to social media by reducing your time scrolling through the Internet on your phone. As you need to overcome challenges and difficulties, you can learn problem-solving skills, and intensify your determination and perseverance. Just imagine you are reaching the finish line, seeing friends cheering you on with "Add Oil!" signs and celebrating your success. A sense of accomplishment can alleviate anxiety and depression while boosting your self-confidence and self-esteem.

Have you considered supporting disabled people through a charity? Why not combine your passion for running with charitable giving? The Hong Kong Marathon supports charities that care about cancer research and aim to raise mental health awareness. You can show your care about these minor groups that need help and attention in society. Besides, you may also spark feelings of unity among runners who feel the same way. During the marathon, you may meet inspiring participants, such as wheelchair racers and senior runners and learn from their experience, determination and resilience. This is a worthy cause for you to join a marathon.

As a first-time marathon runner, you may worry about being injured and getting hurt during your run. There were cases where new runners hurt themselves while running marathons. The knees, feet and ankles are common body parts that can be easily injured. Some runners also suffer from pain syndrome and stress fractures after the marathon. But let me tell you my experience and give you some useful advice to prevent injuries. When you are training, pick a solid training plan that suits you, and practice more on your weaknesses. Avoid overtraining or undertraining. During the marathon, you have to wear proper gear, for example, suitable running shoes. Also, do appropriate stretches before you start your journey.

Running a marathon is not just a physical challenge; it's a journey that can enhance your overall well-being and connect you with a larger community. With proper preparation and a positive mindset, you can gain a rewarding experience.

What are you waiting for? Give it a try and perhaps we will see each other in the next Hong Kong Marathon!

English Fun : Riddles

By: Joyce, Yi Jia Yin (4A)

1
What did the beach say as the tide came in?

2
Why is 9 afraid of 7?

3
Why can't a bike stand up on its own?

4
Where do cows go on dates?

5
What do you call a computer that sings?

Edna, Leung Chi Kwan (4D)

1
Why can a frog jump higher than the Eiffel Tower?

2
What is the worst drink for the athletes?

Nathan, Chan Tsan Hei (4C)

1
I sleep a lot.
Yet I have dark-circled eyes.
What am I?

Kenji, Yiu Ching Kit (4A)

1
Why don't scientists trust atoms?

2
Why can't you give Elsa a balloon?

3
I'm tall when I'm young, and
I'm short when I'm old.
What am I?

4
What can travel around the world while staying in the same spot?

By: Kenji, Yiu Ching Kit (4A) : 1) Because they make up everything
2) Because she'll let it go 3) A candle 4) A stamp

By: Nathan, Chan Tsan Hei (4C) : 1) A Koala or a Sloath

By: Edna, Leung Chi Kwan (4D) : 1) It is because the Eiffel Tower cannot jump
2) A pen/TEA.

By: Joyce, Yi Jia Yin (4A) : 1) Long time, no sea
2) Because 7, 8(ate), 9 3) Because it's "two tired"
4) MOOOO-vies 5) A Dell

English Fun : Fun Facts & Shower Thoughts

Christy, Cheung Kiu (4B)

1. The goal of acting is to act like you're not acting.
2. Have you ever wondered how many times you drank the SAME water?
3. Your house could be sitting on something worth millions underground, but you'll never know.
4. If laughter is the best medicine, and happiness is really just a chemical in the brain, then does 'dying of laughter' mean drug overdose?
5. Your fingers have fingertips, but your toes don't have toe tips. Yet you can tip toe, but not tip finger.
6. The youngest picture of you is also the oldest picture of you.
7. If I weigh 99 pounds and I eat a pound of nachos, am I 1% nacho?
8. If you drop soap on the floor, is the floor clean or is the soap dirty?
9. If two vegans are arguing, is it still considered having "beef"?
10. If you get out of the shower clean, how does your towel get dirty?
11. Surgery is hurting someone to make them heal faster.
12. Nothing is on fire. Fire is ON things.
13. If you are wearing a slipper and you slip, does it make you the slipper?
14. Gyms are a place where customers physically work harder than employees.
15. Money is only useful when you get rid of it.
16. We have an iPad Air, Kindle Fire and Google Earth.
All we need now is Microsoft Water.
17. Why do dogs lick us? Maybe because there are bones inside our body, and they want them.

Inspired by Alphonse Mucha's posters, this drawing features a serene woman surrounded by vibrant blue irises. The harmony between the figure and flora mirrors the balance we must preserve between technological progress and environmental care. Blue irises bloom as symbols of hope, echoing our collective belief in a future where human progress joins natural dance in perfect symbiosis.

Artwork by Cici Zhao (3E)

明道立德

Grasp Principles, Cultivate Virtues

Choi Yuen Estate, Sheung Shui, NT
新界上水彩園邨

Tel 電話 : 26726820 Fax 傳真 : 26720711

URL 網址 : www.tanghin.edu.hk E-mail 電郵 : school@tanghin.edu.hk

香港道教聯合會鄧顯紀念中學
HKTA Tang Hin Memorial Secondary School